Citizens of Wauseon cannot forget that Dr. Carl Vollmer of Toledo is a product of this village and it naturally follows that we all take pride in his progress and success at the same time that we complemently insinuate that he could not help succeeding since he came from Wauseon; but none of us ever thought of Dr. Carl ever turning up as an expert on dogs; that is what he did on May 4th at the Detroit Kennel Club's May Show where he was called to judge English and French bulldogs and made a big hit with dog fanciers in Detroit.

Do not read this. If you do you will have to come in and see our Bolos owners.

Many of the readers of the Tribune know how to kill dandelions. I wish they would give us their method. I am sure the editors would, for the common people, give them room in their columns. I have worked with them in many days but they seem to multiply with every effort of mine, for their extermination.
